Fictional Examination Report

Document reference: FICTIONAL-REPORT-001. Invented for software testing only. Not a real examination report.

Cited documents

Reference A: a fictional brochure describing a torch with a red housing, a blue switch and a removable battery.

Reference B: a fictional catalogue describing a lamp whose battery is held in place by a sliding cover.

Novelty

Claim 1 is rejected for lack of novelty because Reference A discloses a red housing, a blue switch, and a removable battery.

Claim 2 requires further examination because Reference A does not disclose the light source activated by the blue switch.

Inventive step

Claim 4 is rejected for lack of inventive step because combining Reference A with Reference B, which shows a battery held by a sliding cover, would have been obvious to the skilled person.

Claim 3 appears to involve an inventive step, because neither Reference A nor Reference B mentions green light.

Conclusion

The applicant is invited to file amended claims within four fictional months.